AMUSEMENTS TO-NIGHT. VARIETIES.—The prolific pen of Mr. Fitz-simmons had produced another play of the sepsational order entitled "The Dangers of a Dancing Girl, or the Trials of a Danseusa," and will introduce it to his patrons to-night. New acts, songs, dances, and Ethiopian acts will also be produced. CANTERBURY .- Mr. Les announces no new faces for the present week, but his old performers will prove sufficiently attractive, to no doubt fill the hall nightly Denier the daring gymnast and rope walker will perform new and thrilling tests, while the Fowler sisters will appear in new and graceful dances, and the large corps of Ethiopians in new and amqsing acts. There are over one hundred performers here.

FORD'S THEATRE.-The Florences to-night enter upon the fourth and last week of their most successful engagement, when a new Irish legendary drama, written expressly for Mr. Florence, and entitled "Kathleen Mayourneen, or St. Patrick's Eve," will be performed. This play was produced in London, and afterwards in the principal cities of this country. The entertainment will conclude with the Protean play "Thrice Married."

GROVER'S THEATRE.—The great tragedienne Madame Ponisi, to-night commences an engagement at Grover's. "Narcisse or the last days of the Pompadour," is announced for the first time in this city. It depicts scenes that transpired in the reign of Louis XV of France. and just prior to the French Revolution. The cast is a strong one, and embraces besides Ponisi, Mr. J. C. McCollam, Mr. J. W. Jennings, and others.

The Draft Commenced.

The draft in this city and district, to fill the deficiency under the late call of the President for 500,000 men, was commenced this morning in the frame building adjoining Capt. Putnam's office, at the corner of 18th and I streets. The room had been used by clerks connected with the Provost Marshal's Office, but the desks and benches were removed for the occasion. The drawing was conducted as at the first draft in the City Hall, except that while the drawing commenced with the First Ward at that time, the Twelfth District, of the county, having the largest deficiency, was first drawn today. The Twelfth District embraces all that part of the county of Washington east and south of the Eastern Branch or Anacosta river. At 10% o'clock the doors were opened, and those liable to draft came into the building and took position outside of the railing. Mr. Thos. C. Burns, the well known blind man, who drew the names from the box at the former draft, was again on hand, and performed his duties. The cards were then handed to Mr. F. W. Blackferd, Commissioner of Enrollment, who announced the names of the "lucky" individuals. The box was frequently shaken by Mr. S. S. Baker, and the names were thus well

The recording clerks to-day were Joseph J. Ott and John C. Parker, and a force of other clerks occupied positions at a table near by, and as each name was called filled up a notice, this greatly facilitating the business. At eleven o'clock, the names of those enrolled in the 12th District, to the number of 1,473 were placed in the box. The deficiency is 106, but double the number 212, were drawn, in order to meet any deficiency by reason of exemption of any drafted man on account of physical disability, alienage, enrollment elsewhere, &c. Capt. Putnam, Provost Marshall was present and superintended the drawing, and Dr. Keasby, Surgeon of the Board of Enrollment was also present and assisted in counting the cards, and placing them in the box. Mr. Blackford announced that the quota of the 12th District, was originally 187 men and it has furnished but three, and obtained credit for the balance in the appointment of the

THE WASHINGTON EXEMPTION ASSOCIA-Tion -This association, of which Mr. P. F. Bacon is freasurer, and whose number is over 500, held a meeting at Temperance Hall on Saturday evening, which was largely attended, it being understood that a proposition was to be made by some of the members to draw out and invest their subscription in ward bounty funds Mr Lloyd, the president, was in the chair, and the secretary, Mr. R. S. Davis, in meeting, Mr. Bacon stated that he had waited

After the reading of the minutes of the last on the Secretary of War in relation to a postponement of the draft, and was there informed that the draft would take place promptly at the appointed time. The President had been waited upon, but he referred them to the Secretary of War.

Mr. Joseph Gawler moved the appointment of a committee to procure and put in 100 men as substitutes for such members of the club as may be drafted, and appropriating $40,000 therefor.

This motion excited considerable discussion, during which it was objected that this course was not contemplated by the constitution, and the motion was finally amended by authorizing the committee to inquire as to procuring the men, and report to a future meeting, and almost by a unanimous vote laid on the table. Mr. George Maher here stated that the Third Ward were making efforts to fill its quota, that in the association the ward had $11,000, and now the ward needed but $5,000, which it was proposed to draw from the treasury of the association, which, of course, would receive the benefit of the remainder. This announcement was greeted with ories of "No, ne," "its in now," and hisses, and Mr. M. with others, retired. The secretary (Mr. Davis) stated that a mem ber of the club wished to draw out and substitute another man in his place, in fact, not to withdraw his money. That this gentleman joined the association, he having been enrolled while doing business temporarily here, but that on a recent visit to his home in Brooklyn, he ascertained that he was enrolled there, and procured from the Provost Marshal there a certificate of enrollment, on which his name was erassed from the rolls here. A gentleman (whose name we did not hear) opposed the proposition, on the ground that it would not be fair, as, if this precedent was set, those in the club would have the right to withdraw as fast as they ascertained that they were

Mr. B. F. Hurley held that when a person signed the articles, the act should be regarded with the sacredness of an oath, and he thought to return the money to any one would be unfair. He wished the association to understand that the city of Brooklyn had filled its quota. Under the circumstances, the proposition he looked on as an insult. He was for taking the consequences, and standing by the draft. The association had been styled by some as a band of robbers, and the Chronicle had come out against them, but he claimed that the association had done much good. It had put the ward meetings to work, and it had had its influence in the reducing of the quota from nearly 3,000 to about 1,100. He branded any person who would attempt to withdraw his money from the association as not being worthy the name of a man, and claimed that the association was a band of brothers, formed for mutual protec-

Mr. T. H. Dorean thought Mr. H. had spoken too harshly. It sounded all very well for him Mr. H.) to be talking about friendship and mutual protection, but it was all fol de rol. Self-interest induced the formation of the association, and his (the speaker's) object in joining was to save himself. The gentleman who wished to draw out had asked nothing but what was right-he did not propose to withdraw his money, but simply to get his money from an outside party, who would take his place. He (the speaker) lived in the Third Ward, and had come to see what course they would pursue. If the association would give him his money he would invest it in the Third Ward bounty fund; but he was satisfied, if the association refused to allow them to draw out, to remain in. As for the association making up any deficiency, Mr. H. would not do any more than the speaker. He alluded to Mr. H.'s language in relation to the gentlemen who wished to withdraw, saying it came with bad grace, and he denounced Mr. H. as a scoundrel and villain. [Loud cries of "order," "no personalities," and a commotion generally.] Mr. Dorean proceeded to make certain allegations in regard to Mr. Hurley. [Continued commotion, several members around the speaker rising and speaking, which was at length in a measure quieted, and the meeting adjourned in confusion.

Mr. Semmes, from the committee to ascertain if recruits could be obtained, reported that he and the committee went to Alexandria and waited on Col. Boyd, and learned that there were only about thirty men in the 1st District regiment remaining, the rest having re-enlisted or left the service. They also learned that the Seventh Ward were giving $200 for substitutes, while the First Ward committee were only authorized to offer $100. The committee also called on Col. Alexander, of the 2d District regiment, and found that there were over thirty men whose time of service expired in sixty days, who were anxious to re-enlist, and who would do so for $200 and the Government bounty. The committee also ascertained that there were agents from other States who were giving $700 and $800 for recruits. Both Cols. Boyd and Alexander were very kind, and did all in their power to aid the committee. The committee recommended that this ward employ an agent, at a fair salary, to remain in Alexandria and look after the interests of the

Mr. Fielder Dorsett requested to be allowed to wear his hat, as he was bald and the mosquitoes were very troublesome. [Laughter.] Mr. Rapley stated that he had been to Alexandria, and had gone into the office of a broker, and he had been offered $500 to go as a substitute, but he could not see it. [Laughter.]
Mr. Turtin reported that he, with his honor the Mayor, Hon. B. B. French, and severa gentlemen had first called on Capt. Putnam and ascertained that the draft would certainly commence on Monday, at eleven a.m.; also, that the draft would begin with Georgetown and the county, which would give this ward a longer time; also, that they had called upon both the Provost Marshal General Fry and the Secretary of War, and had been told that the draft must proceed on Monday.

The collectors made their returns and it was found that they had collected a little over $3000, handsome sum. Mr. Rapley stated that he had ascertained that many men who were enrolled in this ward, had left here and enlisted in State Regiments, thereby getting the large bounties offered by those States. He believed if the names of the men could be ascertained they would be deducted from the quota of this ward. The meeting then adjourned.
